Queen Victoria at Home.

One of the greatest charms of Her Majesty has always been her voice. To the initiated the voice is always the clearest and most unfeigned index of character. In contemporary literature we have repeated notes of admiration for this pure and peerless voice. "Lady de Dustanville was in the House of Peers when the Queen first appeared. It was a most imposing sight. Her voice was full, clear and sweet, and most distinctly heard." Passages of this kind might be multiplied. Miss Fox gives some very pleasing incidents of the early days. "Uncle Charles dined with us. He was delighted and dazzled by the display on the Queen's day, and mentioned a right merry quibble, perpetrated by my Lord Albemarle, who, on Her Majesty saying, 'I wonder if my good people of London are as glad to see me as I am to see them?' pointed out as their immediate cockney answer to the quibble V. R." She relates the touching incident that when the Queen drove one day to the Park, just after a dastardly attempt, in fear of assassination she "forbade her ladies to attend her and expose themselves to danger from which she would not shrink."

Stockmar came over nearly every year to visit the Queen and the Prince, and almost entirely took the management of the whole menage into his hands. He put all the details of the management of the royal household on a sort of philosophical basis. He passed at will from the broadest generalizations on the British Constitution to the smallest details of the nursery. The organization and superintendence of the children's department occupied a considerable portion of Stockmar's time. In one of his letters he writes: "The nursery gives me more trouble than the government of a kingdom would do." We may mention that the little Princess (the Crown Princess of Prussia), now a woman blooming with health and life, was for many years a sickly child, whose rearing long seemed a matter of doubt. He found that an odious system of red-tapeism pervaded the management of the royal household. It was in the hands of three great State officers—the Lord Steward, the Lord Chamberlain and the Master of the Horse. These are always noblemen of high rank and great political position, who, of course, delegate all the practical duties into the hands of subordinates. The result was that all the tricks of the Circumlocution Office were to be found in Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle.

There was a great deal of the how-not-do-it element. The outside of the palace belonged to the department of Woods and Forests; the inside cleaning of the windows belonged to the Lord Chamberlain's department. The Lord Steward lays the fire and the Lord Chamberlain provides the lamps, and the Lord Steward must clean, trim and light them. If a window-pane was broken or a cupboard door went wrong, there was a whole series of formalities to be gone through before either could be mended. Stockmar complains that there was no one to receive visitors, and show them their rooms; and that they wandered about the corridors alone and unassisted. M. Guizot relates that this was a circumstance which once actually happened to himself. It was through this state of things that the boy Jones was enabled at one o'clock in the morning actually to hide himself under the sofa of the room next the Queen's bed-room, just after the birth of the Princess Royal. Once when the Queen was taken ill there was nobody whose business it was to attend to such a matter, until at last a domestic had the presence of mind to hail a cab to come to the door of Buckingham Palace and to drive off and fetch a doctor.

We have reason to believe all the anomalies which Stockmar pointed out in his memorandum have been rectified. The royal household is now a model to every household in the kingdom. Its guests are made as comfortable as in the most homelike home in the land. Indeed, in the pleasantness and freedom of the arrangement, Windsor Castle seems almost Liberty Hall to its visitors.

—London Society.

The Englishman as an Introducer.

His name was Oscar; and when a gentleman introduced us to him, we misunderstood him, and said, "Glad to see you, Mr. Hoscar." The fellow got boiling mad, and was about to assume the offensive, yelling out at the top of his voice, "My name isn't Hos-car, sir, and I want you to know it!" when his English introducing friend restored amicable relations by the following explanation: "'Old hon, my good friend; Mr. Dittoe has no intention of dubbing you an 'orse car. He evidently misunderstood me on introducing him to you." And then the same party explained to us, as to-wit: "Mr. Dittoe, this gentleman's name is not 'orse car, as you have said, but Hoscar." We replied, "Hoscar is just what I called him." "Yes," returned he; "but 'is name isn't 'oss car, but Hoscar. You see we Henglish 'ave a different way of pronouncing the letter ho from what you 'ave, but hit's all the same in meaning, you know. Let's step in 'ere and get some 'alf and 'alf. Come in, Mr. Hoscar."—Kentucky State Journal.

She Wanted Comedy.

Three months ago when a new servant girl came to a Bush street family the mistress said she desired to post the girl in advance on one certain little point. She and her husband belonged to an amateur theatrical company, and in case Jane heard any racket around the house she must not imagine that they were quarreling. They would simply be rehearsing their parts. The "play" began on the third evening of the girl's engagement. The husband taunted his wife with extravagance, and she said he played poker for money, and chairs were upset and foot-stools kicked around, and threats were made of going home to mother. Next morning the mistress said to the girl:

"Did you hear us playing our parts in the 'Wronged Wife' last night?"

"Yes'm."

"It was simply a rehearsal, you know, and you mustn't think strange of my throwing a vase at my husband and calling him a vile wretch."

Three or four nights after that the curtain went up on a play called "The Jealous Husband," and Jane heard sobs, sighs, protestations, threats and exclamations. The next play was entitled "Coming Home Tight," and was mostly played in the front hall. Then followed "The Depths of Despair," "Threats of Divorce" and "Such a Wretch," until Jane was at last tired of having a private box and being the only audience. The other morning she appeared in the sitting room with her hat on and her bundle under her arm, and said:

"Please, ma'am, but I'm going this morning."

"What, going away?"

"Yes'm."

"For what reason?"

"Please, ma'am, but I'm tired of tragedy. I'm a girl as naturally likes to see hugging and kissing and love making on the stage, and when Marks, the lawyer, comes in on the what-do-you-call-it I'm sure I'll be tickled to death. I think I'll try some family where they rehearse comedy and have a good deal of kissing, and perhaps I may come in as a supe and get a small share of it for myself!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Democracy of Precinct No. 2, are hereby notified that the meeting, this afternoon, August 26th, will be held at the Washington Opera House, promptly at 3 o'clock.

Disgraceful to Himself and the State.

Says the Covington Commonwealth: The action of Judge Hargis in the Nicholas county Democratic Convention last Monday, was, considering the elevated judicial position he occupies, disgraceful to himself and the State. It is said "he stood on the stand in the Convention, wildly waving his hat and yelling" for his favorite candidate. We believe such conduct on the part of a high judicial officer has no parallel in the history of the State, and it is to be hoped it never will be supplemented. Nothing more degrading to the Judiciary could happen.

Call and see specimens.

The Weather Outlook.

Is not improving. Instead of the "couplet" being composed of, or embracing two summers as at we first thought, it appears now that it is to consist of a summer and a winter. In other words it is probable that the "rain wave" in southwestern and southern sections, at any rate, will continue up to and through the fore part of March, 1883; while in extreme western and northern sections there is likely to be heavy snow-falls in November, December and the fore part of January.

September is likely to be the counterbalancing month of this most unpropitious season, that during this month everything should be done that can be, to house things safely against further wet storm.

October looks full of disastrous storms of wind and rain, and a good deal of cold weather after the middle and in the last week of the month.

From October rains and floods are likely to continue in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Dakota and Minnesota, with an occasional heavy snow-fall, up to the entry of the year 1883.

In the Middle and Northern United States and Canada the weather is also likely to continue wet up to a late period, but two or more winter belts of weather with snow-falls are likely to be experienced in the latter portion of October and in November, after which rain will again set in. At New York the autumn will be very wet. In the North West early cold and advanced snow-falls are likely to be the conditions, while in December the cold may be intense.

We will review again in the September issue. So far our statements tally with our early impressions.—Vennor's Weather Bulletin.

Ruggles Camp Meeting.

Another Day of Power---Sermons by Dr. G. D. Watson, T. Hanford and C. J. Hawes---Souls Converted, Religious Sanctified---Altars Crowded.

From our Special Correspondent.

FRIDAY.

Rev. E. B. Hill led the before breakfast meeting and God gave us a feast of fat things to strengthen us for the day. W. W. Scarlet conducted an experience meeting at 8:30 a. m., which was refreshing.

At 11 a. m., Rev. G. D. Watson, D. D., discoursed in his clear, striking and forcible manner on Acts, 2:4. "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost."

Just afternoon Sister Whitridge held a childrens' meeting in the ladies' tent, which was well attended and very interesting. Seldom have the children been so well instructed.

Rev. T. Hanford discoursed in his characteristic plain touching and effective manner on Psalms, 27, 13:14. Three or four were converted or cleansed. Young people's meeting led by Rev. E. B. Hill well attended, and the woman's meeting conducted by Mrs. Lucy C. Bailey was a full and profitable one. One sought salvation.

At night Rev. C. J. Hawes preached in that logical earnest and forcible way common to him. Text, 1st Thess. 4:3. Many at the altar seeking religion.

NOTES.

Memorial service for D. E. Roberts 3 p. m.

The interest in the meeting is increasing daily, and spreading in all directions, people are being made to feel that they are now lost without Christ and believers are awaking to the necessity of a clean heart. The whole country has never been so stirred.

All the traveling ministers of the district who have been here except two have professed the experience of sanctification. A holy awe pervades the audiences, men are overcome by their convictions and bow in all parts of the Tabernacle and many in other places.

About thirty-eight have been converted and forty or more sanctified. Shouts are to be heard at the hotel, in the tents and at nearly all if not all the meetings. Our presiding elder is guiding the hosts while God leads to holiness and victory over the devil.

Arrivals, Rev. J. A. Boatman, of Augusta, Miss Emma Nolan, of Maysville, and Mrs. Capt. Kelley, of Mt. Carmel, Miss Florence Sheppard, of Somerset, and Miss Wheeler, of Oddville, are the guests of Rev. J. S. Cox. Rev. L. N. Carr was here to-day.

Thanks to Misses Mamie and Sallie Foxworth and Sallie Glascock, of Mt. Carmel, for the handsome bouquets with which they have decorated the pulpit for several days. The labors of sisters Moore and Whitridge have been like "ointment poured forth." All praise God that they have been with us. Brother Scarlet's power is being felt. The meeting will continue until Monday night.

Preachers of power are here and others are coming. Greater results than ever are confidently expected. Come one and all.

Baptist Association.

Friday's Proceedings--Report of the Mission Board--Orphans' Home at Louisville.

Addresses by Rev. J. W. Warder and Dr. J. T. Tichenor--Personal Notes.

From our Special Correspondent.

FRIDAY.

The Association assembled again this morning. The bright clear weather bringing out a large congregation. The considerations of foreign Mission occupied the attention at an early hour. Speeches upon which were made by Rev. R. L.

Thurman, agent of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention valuable statistics indicative of the good work accomplished by missionaries, were presented but we failed to catch them.

The Baptists have been long prominent in this work, having at a very early day sent missionaries to Asia and Africa.

The report of the Mission board of Bracken Association then claimed the attention of the body for a time. The humble missionary has found his way into many a secluded neighborhood, and in the school houses even, in one case, in the distillery has gathered his congregation and preached to the people the ever attractive story of the cross.

This board has within the last 15 years expended twelve or fifteen thousand dollars for missionary work directly while it has raised and expended a large amount in the erection of meeting houses some of them excellent buildings.

Some reports of missionaries was exceedingly interesting.

Following this was a report on the Baptist Orphans' Home of Louisville, whose claims were well represented by Rev. J. Pike Powers of Owenton, Ky., and by Rev. W. H. Felix of Covington. Few could resist the appeals in behalf of the fatherless and motherless and the handsome amount of over $215 was soon raised for the institution.

The home was organized a few years ago in order to give training and education to orphans without respect to denomination of parents, and secure good homes for them. By a provision in its charter no child can be bound out for menial service, but can only be adopted and educated as a son or daughter.

In the afternoon, Rev. J. W. Warder, of Louisville, addressed the body in behalf of the State Missions.

Dr. J. T. Tichenor, of Atlanta, Ga., entertained the Association by a very able address on home and Indian missions and was followed in a short but very appropriate address to church members on the duty of giving.

Adjourned to meet to-night to hear a sermon by Rev. W. H. Felix, of Covington.

We note among us as new arrivals, Dr. J. T. Tichenor, of Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Lexington, Ky., Rev. G. W. Given, of Mt. Sterling, and Miss May Hollingsworth, matron of Louisville Baptist Orphans' Home.

We note among visitors from Maysville, Rev. J. K. Pace, G. A. McCracken, John T. Parker, A. Lee Glascock, Lewellyn C. Hall, C. P. Hall, A. J. Egnew, and Mrs. A. J. Egnew, Mrs. A. R. Glascock, Misses Sarah Ball, Julia Burrows, Anna Waltz.

All seem to be enjoying the meeting and the hospitalities of the good people of Augusta.

A Frenchwoman's Career of Crime.

Helene Jegodo, a Frenchwoman, between the years of 1853 and 1857, killed twenty-eight persons with poison, besides making several unsuccessful attempts. In none of her murders was cause alleged or discovered, though undoubtedly the pleasure derived from the perpetration of crime was the chief factor. Her victims were her masters and mistresses, her fellow servants, her friends, and several nuns, for whom in their last moments she displayed the utmost tenderness and care. The plea of monomania was set up in her defense, but no evidence was brought forward by her counsel, save the apparent want of motive for her crimes. It was shown however, that she had begun her career of crime when only seventeen years old, by attempting to poison her confessor; that she had, while perpetrating her wholesale murders, affected the greatest piety, and was for a time an inmate of a convent; that she had committed over thirty thefts; that she had maliciously cut and burned various articles of clothing placed in her charge; that when asked why she stole things that were of no use to her, she had replied, "I always steal when I am angry;" that she was subject to alternate periods of great mental depression, and excessive and unreasonable gaiety; that she was affected with pains in the head and vertigo; that when she was angry she vomited blood; and that, while in prison awaiting trial, she was constantly laughing and joking about indifferent subjects. She was found guilty, and on being asked if she had anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed, made an answer so much like one given more recently by another criminal that I give it here: "No, your Honor; I am innocent, I am resigned to all that may happen. I would rather die innocent than live guilty. You have judged me, but God will judge you." Her last words on the scaffold were directed to accusing a woman as her instigator and accomplice, whose name was not even mentioned during the trial, and who, upon inquiry, was found to be an old paralytic whose life had been of the most exemplary character.

The most noted case of similar character occurring in this country is that of Jesse Pomeroy, the boy torturer and murderer of Massachusetts. The plea of insanity here was of some avail, for his sentence of death was commuted to imprisonment for life. These cases are sufficient to illustrate the nature of the relations of reasoning mania to crime.—Lecture by Dr. Hammond.

The Boy Violinist in Sontag's Dressing-room.

At Sontag's first concerts here, the wonderful young violinist, Paul Jullien, appeared with her. He was then a mere boy, hardly more than a child, for he was but ten years old; but his performance was already that of a virtuoso, and his tone and style were nearly those of a great master of the instrument. One evening, after Madame Sontag had been here about a month, I went, at one of her concerts, to her private room, where she had been kind enough to receive me before, for she was one of the very few prima-donnas with whom I was on familiar terms. "Entrez!" said a male voice when I knocked at the half-open door. I entered, and what should I see but Count Rossi and Paul Jullien sitting together over a basin of water, which was between them on the sofa. Count Rossi looked up and smiled as he held out his hand without rising, and then blew into the bowl. He was engaged with Paul (who a few minutes before had astonished a delighted and cultivated audience) in sailing paper-boats, which the little fellow had begged the Count to make for him from concert programmes. The basin from Madame Sontag's washstand furnished the sea on which the fragile fleet was launched. The boy continued his amusement until Madame Sontag entered, and then hastily drying his hands upon another concert bill, took up his violin, and while I was yet musing in wonder at the strangeness of the scene, my rumination was disturbed by the outburst of applause which greeted the entrance of the little boat-sailer upon the stage.—Richard Grant White.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.
